Dear Alex,

I have reviewed several episodes of the program "STANLEY ON THE GO" and I am confident that it meets the educational and informational needs of children 13 to 16 years of age with its program content. The series travels around the world—from Europe to Asia to across the United States—offering a historical and geographical lesson to teen viewers with each show. For instance, viewers learn about life in small towns and villages, as well as in large cities, such as New York and Vienna. In one episode, the host explores life in Nicaragua while in another episode, he visits the Iowa State Fair offering viewers a look at Middle America.

Additionally, in each episode of "STANLEY ON THE GO," features a detailed historical perspective about each location in an entertaining and educational presentation, giving teen viewers a wonderful glimpse of faraway places.

Sincerely,
