Dear Alex,

I have reviewed several episodes of the program "MARTY STOUFFER'S WILD AMERICA" and I am confident that it meets the educational and informational needs of children 13 to 16 years of age with its program content. Each episode in the series is a wonderful look into America's wildlife and wilderness areas. The programs show the lives and behaviors of all types of mammals, birds, fish and reptiles in all parts of the United States. The programs are a virtual natural history video encyclopedia.

"MARTY STOUFFER'S WILD AMERICA" is an important addition to any broadcast stations' programming line-up because the series informs and educates young viewers, while broadening their understanding of the wildlife which populate the United States.

Sincerely,

Information for Station's Children's Television Programming Report

MARTY STOUFFER'S WILD AMERICA

WILD AMERICA is targeted to children ages 13-16. The key educational objective of the program is to familiarize children with the animals of the North American content, their interaction with other animals and their environment. Throughout the series emphasis will be placed upon protecting endangered species and the impact that humans have while interacting in their environment.

Each episode of the series will be specific to a particular animal. Topics will range from basic food gather, mating, natural enemies, relationships to other animals, and the interaction of the specific ecology on the survival of the species.

We expect that children viewing the program will achieve a greater understanding of nature and specific animal species because of the up-close and detailed photography of the series. Through this understanding, it is hoped children will better relate to the natural environment as it exist in North American and learn to protect its natural species.
