

TELCO PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Dear Station,

Pursuant to the Children's Television Act of 1990, WORKFORCE will satisfy the FCC Children's programming requirement and can be classified as either core or non-core programming. WORKFORCE serves the educational and informational needs of children 13 to 16 years of age with its program content, including the importance of having a working knowledge of math, science and communication skills. The series shows introduces teens to a wide variety of possible careers, emphasizing how education and practical skills impact a person's ability to successfully pursue a career. The series also demonstrates real-world job experience, proving that that an appropriate education is necessary to pursue almost any career. Each episode presents two possible career paths offering teenagers a chance to get some "hands on" experience in various jobs. Program also notes educational and training requirements for various careers, as well as potential salary ranges for a given job.

WORKFORCE as delivered is formatted to allow for no more than 14 minutes of total commercial time per broadcast hour (7 minutes per half-hour). WORKFORCE does not display any Internet web site address or host selling during or adjacent to the program, and is otherwise in compliance with Sections 73.670(a) through (d) of the Commission's Rules.

To facilitate your FCC filings, episode synopses are available on line at our website, www.telcoproductions.com. Also available on-line are testimonials from our educational advisory review board, consisting of educators and other professionals who have reviewed the series (see the following letters for details).

If you have any other questions, please don't hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,

Dear Alex,

I have reviewed the series "WORK FORCE," and I believe that it serves the educational and informational needs of children 13 to 16 years of age with its program content, including the importance of having a working knowledge of math, science and communication skills. The series shows introduces teens to a wide variety of possible careers, emphasizing how education and practical skills impact a person's ability to successfully pursue a career.

The series also demonstrates real-world job experience, proving that that an appropriate education is necessary to pursue almost any career. Each episode presents two possible career paths offering teenagers a chance to get some "hands on" experience in various jobs. For example, in episode no.120, one teen does a one-day apprenticeship with an automobile mechanic, while another spends a working day with a forensic scientist. Both teens participated in the actual work being done, as well as learning what education, training and experience is required to earn the appropriate certifications and/or licenses required to pursue that particular careers, as well as potential salary ranges for a given job. This provides teen viewers with an important glimpse into the working world, an aspect of their education that is often overlooked.

Sincerely,

Dear Alex,

Having reviewed the series "WORKFORCE," I believe that this series serves the educational and informational needs of children 13 to 16 years of age with its program content, particularly with its emphasis on the importance of having a practical knowledge of science and mathematics. The program presents teens with a wide variety of careers choices and demonstrates how a good education, combined with a range of practical skills, offers the best possibility of finding and pursuing a rewarding career.

Each episode of "WORKFORCE" presents two possible career paths offering teenagers a chance to get some on-the-job-training in actual workplaces. For example, in episode no. 1119, one teen does a one-day apprenticeship with a toxicologist, while another spends a working day with a jeweler. The series demonstrates that an appropriate education is necessary to pursue almost any career summarizing what education, training and experience is required to earn the appropriate certifications and/or licenses required to pursue that particular career.

Sincerely,
