LOST & FOUND: The Search for USS Lagarto

In 1944, the submarine USS Lagarto left a small shipyard in Wisconsin and traveled 8,000 miles to serve in the Pacific. While on war patrol, Lagarto engaged a Japanese convoy in a ferocious sea battle and all communication with the sub ended. For more than 60 years nothing further was known; families were simply told "Lagarto overdue from patrol, presumed lost." Then, miraculously, a British diver stumbled upon the remains of Lagarto and her crew of 86, entombed at the bottom of the Gulf of Thailand.

LOST & FOUND: The Search for USS Lagarto is the powerful story of the last battle of Lagarto and her crew, and of the families that were left behind with no graves to mourn, no bodies to bury, and the mystery of why no one escaped from the sinking sub.
