

Series Description

By Design is a weekly series exploring the amazing worlds of industrial design, architecture, interior design and landscapes and gardens.

The half-hour series presents the stories behind great innovations and transformative design and introduces the people that are changing the way we live our lives—we hear from the designers who share the challenges they faced, the problems they solved and the amazing benefits their innovation or design project is providing individuals, industry, community and society.

- Half-hour weekly
